Potato Latkes  Makes about 16

4 medium russet potatoes, peeled (I used Yukon Gold); 2 eggs, lightly beaten
1 medium yellow onion, peeled and finely chopped; 2 T matzo meal salt and freshly ground black pepper; 2 c safflower or canola oil

1. Grate potatoes on the large holes of a box grater. Working with small handfuls at a time, squeeze out moisture from potatoes and transfer to a large bowl. Add eggs, onions, matzo meal, and salt and pepper to taste and stir until well combined.

2. Heat oil in a large deep skillet over medium heat until hot but not smoking. Working in small batches, shape potato mixture into loose 3” disks, using a scant 1/4 c for each disk. Fry in hot oil, turning once, until golden brown and crisp, 2-3 minutes per side. Transfer latkes with a slotted spatula to paper towels to drain.

3. Serve with apple sauce, yogurt or sour cream.

Please begin this 5 month Potato Sampler in Dec. The potatoes I grew from your seed potatoes will be gone by then and after tasting one of your potatoes, my family refuses to eat any other. Yours are the best.

I got a 2 month sampler as a surprise from my boss for Christmas. When the HUGE box showed up at my door I think I laughed for 15 minutes. However, the potatoes are amazing! I’m now a huge fan of Cranberry Red; I never even knew pink potatoes existed! This is just a unique gift idea. I can’t wait for my next box to arrive!

Wood Prairie Potatoes: Discover the Variety

Potatoes have been enjoyed by cooks of the New World for over 7,000 years. From their South American roots, potatoes have spread to the far corners of the world, and in doing so have made an indelible mark on the pages of world history. Today potatoes number over a thousand varieties and come in all shapes, colors, textures and flavors. Our organic potatoes are available September through April.

Each order of potatoes clearly identifies the potato variety and contains a copy of our Potato Recipe booklet. We’re happy to fill special requests for preferred tuber size. Potatoes store well if kept cool and dark.

THE MID-DRY POTATOES

The Wood Prairie Difference

A true potato lover is left sadly disappointed by the common unnamed supermarket potatoes that have been grown with a lot more thought given to yield and production qualities than to taste.

Here at Wood Prairie Farm we test grow scores of varieties and offer to you only those that excel in flavor and culinary quality. In short: the best of the best, organically grown.

When you order from us, you’ll know just what variety you’ll be getting and just how it will perform in your kitchen. Add to this the unequaled quality that results from careful organic production: nurturing our soil’s balance and fertility and avoiding the use of harmful chemicals in your food. Our potatoes are raised with the care of days-gone-by, hand-picked, hand-selected, and gently brushed clean. As with everything you get from us, we guarantee your satisfaction.

Colcannon

Ingredients: 4 Large potatoes, peeled and diced
1 cup heavy cream or milk; 1-2 cloves minced garlic
1 tablespoon parsley, chopped; 1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon white pepper; 1 cup chopped green cabbage
1 leek, diced

Instructions: In a heavy oven proof saucepan boil cream, potatoes, salt, pepper and garlic for 5 minutes. In a separate pan cook vegetables until tender. Combine with potatoes and bake at 400 for 20 minutes.
Best served hot. (From Joy of Cooking)
Unearthing Potato Texture

Food scientists and gourmet chefs group potatoes according to their texture. Potato texture can be explained by two prominent characteristics:

1. The Solids Content which is measured by specific gravity readings that compare a particular variety’s density to the density of water. A low solids potato will be moist, a high solids potato will be dry.
2. The Ratio of Two Starch types
   a. A potato high in the straight starch, Amylose, will be mealy or floury when cooked.
   b. Conversely, a potato which is high in the branched starch, Amylopectin, will hold firmly together in cooking (think of “pectin” which makes strawberry jam jell).

Knowing the texture of the potato helps to unravel the mystery of how it will perform a given cooking task. Texture then, can help you choose which variety or potato group works best for a given recipe.

Wood Prairie Potatoes In the Kitchen

The above uses ought to be considered guidelines only; for an adventurous cook they are rules made to be bent through experimenting with the qualities of the different varieties. For example, every one of our varieties is good baked; the dry ones, like Butte, will be fluffier; the waxy and moist, like Reddale will be firmer. And the small baby tubers are every bit as good baked as are the large, only the small ones cook quicker. Additionally, you’ll find that all of our potatoes can be boiled, though dry selections, like Swedish Peanut, are more likely to fall apart when overcooked than a moist or waxy variety like Caribé.
Wood Prairie Potato Postcards

In the early part of last century American fruit boxes were adorned with beautiful pastoral depictions of the farm and its produce. So prevalent and compelling were these box labels that a folk art form came to be widely recognized as “Fruit Crate label art.”

In the Fruit Crate tradition we have produced what we call Potato Postcards for each of the varieties that we grow and offer to you. On each card the variety and its culinary uses is described in both prose and by an original watercolor painting of the potato and its distinctive blossom. You will receive with each potato variety you order, the Potato Postcard describing that variety.

Now we make available our eighteen Potato Postcards, individually or as a complete set, for the collector, gift giver, or avid postcard mailer. Each card, 4¼” x 6”.

Winter Rye.

Rye is a Johnny-come-lately on the grain scene. Originating in northeastern Europe, its spread through the Roman Empire coincided with the Christian Era. As a grain, rye has less gluten than wheat so is often used in unison with wheat. When used as the only flour, rye will produce a hearty dense loaf.

Ancient Spelt.

An ancient subspecies of wheat, Spelt was the chief grain in Egypt and Greece and cultivated everywhere throughout the Roman Empire and its colonies.

Spelt is an agricultural misfit to modern agribusiness and is rarely grown now-a-days. But because of its light texture and lively but delicate gluten, spelt is making a comeback with today’s discerning bakers. Suitable anywhere you’d use an all-purpose whole wheat flour. Everyone should try Spelt.

Whole Spelt Flour. A wonderful light flour for breads and pastries, good gluten content.

Our Products. All food and seed items offered in our Catalog have been Certified Organically grown either here on Wood Prairie Farm or by other Certified Organic family farmers. We do not support Monsanto and we do not offer any seed or crop varieties under Monsanto’s control.

Safe Seed Pledge. We do not sell GMO. (genetically modified organisms). “Agriculture and seeds provide the basis upon which our lives depend. We must protect this foundation as a safe and genetically stable source for future generations. For the benefit of all farmers, gardeners and consumers who want an alternative, we pledge that we do not knowingly buy or sell genetically engineered seeds or plants. The mechanical transfer of genetic material outside of natural reproductive methods and between genera, families or kingdoms, poses great biological risks as well as economic, political, and cultural threats. We feel that genetically engineered varieties have been insufficiently tested prior to public release. More research and testing is necessary to further assess the potential risks of genetically engineered seeds. Further, we wish to support agricultural progress that leads to healthier soils, genetically diverse agricultural ecosystems and ultimately people and communities.” Wood Prairie Farm joins 100 seed companies in signing this pledge. An important strategy for creating sustainable and fertile organic plots is to protect and improve your soil with beneficial cover crops. Applications range from simple sprinkling on of fast growing grain covers once a crop is harvested to more sophisticated multi-year sod-forming legume crop rotations that build soil organic matter and fertility and break up insect and disease cycles. Take care of the soil that feeds you!

Grains and Pulses

Buckwheat Seed. Organic Common. This is our favorite cover crop! Unsurpassed for weed suppression and soil tilth improvement. Fast growing and succulent but warm season and sensitive to frost; for green manure sow anytime after it has warmed up (late May to mid July in the North). To plant for grain harvest sow 90 days before Fall frosts. Young plants make an excellent spinach-like green. Performs well on poor soils. Reputed to take up soil phosphorus and make available to next crop via residue decomposition. Plan on cutting/incorporating 7-8 weeks after planting at 10% bloom to avoid development of seed as a future weed problem. Seed at 4 lbs./1000 sq. ft. or 125-150 lbs./acre. 14,000 seeds/lb.
- Item CCBUCKWHEAT2.5 $9.95/2.5 lbs.

- Item CCADMIRAL50 $81.00/50 lbs.

Oat Seed. Organic Hull-less. An excellent cool season spring grain crop. Unlike their conventional counterparts, Hull-less Oats are largely free of hulls so that after simple threshing and cleaning the grain is ready for rolling into flakes, milling into flour or cooking whole, all without the need of an expensive de-hulling machine. Plant oat grain crops as early as the soil can be worked in Spring. Cover crops can be planted at any time during the growing season and will be taken down by late Fall hard freezes in the North. Fall sown winter-killed crops can be easily Spring tilled-into the soil ahead of seeding. Seed at 4 lbs./1000 sq. ft. or 130 lbs./acre. 16,000 seeds/lb.

Winter Rye Seed. Organic Common. Vigorous, rugged and winter hardy; this is the standard by which grain cover crops are measured. As a grain crop for Rye flour or flakes, plant late summer for mid-summer harvest the next year. As a cover crop Winter Rye approaches 5 foot height and can be planted any time of year beginning in Spring. Incorporate residue into soil at least 30 days before succeeding crop to avoid germination suppression. Beware, overwintering Winter Rye will begin growing before ground is ready to work in the Spring which presents a problem for next year’s early seeded crops. Seed at 4-6 lbs./1000 sq. ft. or 110 lbs./acre. 18,000 seeds/lb.

Certified Seed Potatoes For The Garden

I have ordered from you for many years and am very satisfied with the quality of your product. Last year I decided to do a little experiment in my garden. I planted your potatoes like always, but went to my local garden center and got a few to plant. The Wood Prairie potatoes were 100% germination, where the garden center was maybe 40%. They continued to out perform throughout the growing season as well. That’s why I swear by your potatoes! EG Jamestown CO

Potatoes are a welcome addition to any garden. Ours are easy to grow and “new potatoes” fresh out of the garden are a special treat.

Along with squash, maize (corn), and beans, potatoes are a gift from the American continent to the rest of the world. The cultivation of potatoes is a legacy that has continued for over 7,000 years.

The varieties we offer are the best from our Research Trials conducted under Certified Organic growing conditions. We select for outstanding culinary quality, and as organic farmers ourselves, for compatibility to organic cultural techniques. We don’t offer it unless it is an exceptional variety.

We grow what we sell. Each year tens of thousands of packages of our Certified Organic Certified seed potatoes are planted in fields and gardens across America. For fast emergence, high yield, and sustained vitality throughout the growing season we offer to you our disease-tested State of Maine Certified whole seed potato tubers. We recommend selecting several varieties to find the ones which prosper most in the microclimate of your garden. Our Certified Seed Potatoes are shipped when you want them, September through May. Organic Potato Growing Guide included with every order.

For those of you in the South and Southwest interested in trying Fall planting we suggest short and medium dormancy varieties like Caribé, Russian Banana, Rose Gold or Reddale. Bear in mind that potatoes must go through a dormancy period of 4 to 8 weeks after harvest before they will sprout and grow. For planting after December 1, this presents no limitation.

Good Certified Seed Doesn’t Cost: It Pays.

I can’t wait to put the potatoes in. I love your potatoes. This is the third year I’ve planted your seed potatoes and I know they will be healthy and beautiful and raring to grow. My honey and I have a small farm-11 acres-but we grow thousands of pounds of vegetables for our neighbors. I give away everything we don’t eat and that’s a lot. There’s quite a few folks who don’t know where my potatoes come from but they are glad I grow them. You guys are the best. Thank you again for helping me grow a garden that others covet. I may not be your best customer but I am the happiest. Happy growing! PG West Brandywine PA

I just had to write and tell you to spread the word that apartment dwellers can grow potatoes too! I decided to experiment with growing potatoes in waste baskets and other deep containers. I tried 3 different shapes of containers and ordered 1 lb of Caribe from you. I have harvested 2 of the 3 containers and have gotten close to 10 lbs of potatoes! They were so easy to grow and the taste is incredible! You guys rock! KK Kirkland WA

I want to let you know that my four-year old son, Andy, will be very excited about planting and harvesting potatoes this year. My husband and I have gardened for a dozen years on our farm in the Ozarks, and our son has added a whole new dimension to our gardening. He loves to help plant and harvest, and potatoes are really easy for a kid to get involved with. It’s important to me to raise a child that knows that potatoes are roots, they bloom and they make big green plants in the summer. I also appreciate the great quality of the Wood Prairie potatoes. It’s obvious that you take a lot of pride in what you produce, and my family and I enjoy the product from planting to harvest to the table.

About The Importance of Certified Seed

Potatoes are produced through the use of specially grown tubers called seed potatoes. Any potato that has not been treated with a chemical sprout inhibitor will grow and produce a new plant with a new generation of tubers. However, it is universally recognized that because potatoes can be afflicted with a variety of diseases, many of which can develop rapidly within one generation, potatoes used as seed should be Certified for disease content by a recognized governmental seed certification program.

Modern seed potatoes, old and new varieties alike, originate from meristem tissue-culture propagation in laboratories. Certified Seed growers plant special seed tubers which have been produced from this tissue-culture process. The potatoes thus harvested become the certified Seed for those who want to grow potatoes themselves. These Certified Seed potatoes are what we organically grow and offer for sale to you. As Certified Seed producers, we regularly renew seed stock from these disease-free origination facilities, sparing no expense in our efforts to provide you with the best early generation seed potatoes available anywhere. Certified Organic, of course.

You'll find it’s the same with seed potatoes as with everything else: the best quality is the best value in the end. There is never so much difference in the price between the best Certified Seed and the common as there is in the crop when harvest time comes. Farmers that must have reliability in their crops know this and that is why they plant Certified Seed potatoes. Wise gardeners follow suit.

For almost a century, the State of Maine has been the nation’s leader in the production of Certified Seed potatoes. “Maine Certified Seed” means carefully grown, high vigor, early generation tubers. Seed potatoes must pass three separate field inspections and the Florida post-harvest Growout Test before it becomes Maine Certified Seed and earns the coveted Maine Blue Seed Tag. Maine’s northern grown Certified Seed is hardier and that means better yields wherever you garden.

Your seed potatoes are top notch!

We had a tough growing year. Too much rain, not enough sun, too many mice, late tomato, blight, etc. Yet we still got a winter’s worth of good potatoes. Caribes continue to be our most consistent producer. I grow and sell herbs and flowers. At age 71 I keep to the light-weight products, but your potatoes provide a good crop for our family’s nutrition.

Influence of Latitude Upon Potatoes

The following test, which is one of many researches which the writer has undertaken for the purpose of determining how far latitude influences vegetation, is interesting in this connection.

Last spring a half bushel of Pennsylvania-grown Early Rose Potatoes was secured from Philadelphia, and another half bushel was obtained from George W.P. Jerrard, of Maine…

It may be well to remark here that when the tubers arrived there was no difference in their appearance as regards vitality. The samples were planted side by side, and were given the same treatment… from the first the difference in the appearance of the tops was very marked, those from Maine tubers being much the larger, and at harvest time the total yield was four and four-fifths times greater from the Maine seed than from that grown in Pennsylvania. A graphic idea of the difference in the yield may be obtained from Fig. 2, which show the proportionate amounts…

L.H. Bailey

The above excerpted from the 1892 Catalog of the Jerrard Seed Potato Co., of Caribou, Maine.

I learned about your company from Eliot Coleman’s book The Winter Harvest Handbook. He recommends Rose Gold for winter gardening for protection. I will be using black landscape fabric for soil’s heat retention, a very thin insect barrier over hoops and overall protection from cold (with Tuftlite IV over yet larger hoops). Delighted to find your website and catalog! I can see myself frequently ordering!

Your seed is always great! We planted 9 1/2 pounds and harvested 300 pounds. Red Cloud and Yukon Gold do well here. BR Seymour TN

Last year I made a BIG mistake by buying my seed potatoes from Agway, rather than from you, as I had in past years. My crop was horrible. I will NEVER purchase from anyone else again. Your product and the results, are 100% each and every year! MC Tyngsboro MA

My husband asked me to e-mail you and tell you that he got 7-1/2 lbs. (20 wonderful potatoes) from just one Butte plant. The least amount from one plant was 12! He was actually excited while digging potatoes! He’s a big fan of your potato plants. The fingerlings are delicious! Thanks and keep up the good, hard work!

Like many in the area we got hit by blight, but Butte was not affected and Prairie Blush only a little bit. Every tuber we put into storage made it through the winter.

Ten Tips For The Organic Potato Patch

★ Faithfully rotate garden crops. Never plant potatoes after another nightshade.

★ Treat your garden to generous amounts of organic matter: cover crops, leaves, straw.

★ Potatoes love fertility: barnyard manure is wonderful when composted or fully aged. Promote plant health with regular sprays of liquid seaweed and liquid fish.

★ Plant the best Certified Seed available.

★ Warm seed for a day or two or greensprout prior to planting. Five pounds of nonfingerling seed tubers plants 40-50 feet of row. Five pounds of fingerling seed tubers will plant about 120 feet of row.

★ Cut seed tubers into blocky pieces containing at least two eyes and weighing 1½ -2 oz. (fingerlings ¾-1 oz.).

★ Plant shallow for fast emergence; (1” deep in the North to 4” deep in the South) hill soil around plants 2-3 times beginning when they are 4-6 inches high, or mulch with straw.

★ Regularly handpick and control insect pests.

★ Harvest anytime you please after tubers reach marble size.

This red, white and blue collection was the biggest hit of my vegetable garden last year, and I am ordering this again this year. The potatoes were outstanding. My neighbor complimented me on the potato plants, as they grew tremendously and did better than anything else we were growing. These potatoes are fun for folks who are not familiar with blue potatoes (or red potatoes with red flesh too)! I cannot recommend this more highly. Get the red, white and blue package deal!! I love to get your newsletters, I feel like I am part of a large family. Best to you and the kids. SS Upper Lake CA

I wanted to write you a note to say how thankful I am that I found you and your seed potatoes. I am a fairly novice gardener, having only started my garden last year, but every single one of your potatoes that I have put in the ground has sprouted, produced and been moist and delicious. Even this year, when my potatoes were afflicted by late blight (in my ignorance, I didn’t pull up the volunteer potato that sprouted) and I had to pull the plants early. I still had a huge yield of tubers. They’re on the small side, but still tasty. MM Santa Clarita CA
